Considerations on the State of Things In the Streets of Heaven and on the Streets of Earth

From a message for our troubled time, from the abbot of the (traditional Benedictine) Abbey of Our Lady of Clear Creek in the Ozark foothills of Oklahoma:

“As cries of anger echo these days through the streets of many a city in our world beneath the stars, the Angels of God in Heaven serenely pursue their song of praise in honor of the Three Divine Persons. . . .

“For those of us still left upon the Earth, pilgrims on our way (as we firmly hope) to the Heavenly Jerusalem, for those of us who have not yet attained to the vision of peace promised to those who persevere until the end in living faith taught by Our Lord, the one true Lord of History and of Peace, there remains an urgent question.

Whatever are we to do in the face of the tremendous human misunderstandings and divisions—erupting now into violence—such as hold sway in all too many of our Western society?

“Among the duties that are incumbent upon man, there is one that has been more neglected in our day. And yet it is a very agreeable duty, a joyful obligation, one that lifts a man up as he performs it. It is the duty of praise.

“We can be certain that in the exact measure to which proper praise, Eucharistic praise especially, but also the praise of veneration offered to the Blessed Virgin Mary and the other Saints, begins to rise up more frequently from the world, to the same extent the voices of violent anger and despair will be calmed. . . .
